Marshall Warns 'Single Word' Can Start Third War

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(P)—A rapid build-up of the nation's war plants is essential to meet serious threat of a global conflict, Secretary of Defense Marshall has told Congress.

Whether an all-out shooting war might erupt within the next few months was described by Marshall as "very hard to answer."

Peace Hope Retained.
He said this country is doing all it can to avoid full-scale hostilities, but, he added, "we realize that ties, but, he added, "we realize that an all-out war can be initiated by a single word from the other side." While this uncertainty exists, he said, "emphasis on production is the way to begin" to strengthen the nation's sinews. He said the important thing is "to lay down the assembly lines, the tooling, the Jigs and so forth, so that we can quickly build up what may be necessary."

At Secret Hearing.

Marshall expressed these views in secret hearings before the House Military Appropriations sub-committee on an emergency $16.844,000,000 request for more military funds. The subcommittee made runds. ## Soil Conservation Discussed Today At Civitan Meeting By Carl Spencer

"Soil conservation is more of an attitude than it is a technical problem," Carl Spencer told the Corsicana Civitan Club here Thursday. Spencer spoke as a representative of the Friends of the Land organization, for which he is making an extensive speaking tour ver Texas currently.

"Once the people get interested in conserving and increasing production on land, we can get the job done somehow. Getting them interested in the first place is the problem," Spencer went on.

The organizatior Spencer represents is now interested in showing each individual, farmer or city-dweller, the value of soil conservation and the effect of it upon him.

dweller, the value of soil conservation and the effect of it upon him.

"I have heard it said that $5.000 makes the difference between a capitalist and a comminist," the tall native of Huntsville, Texas, said. "When we have something, we are interested in developing and using it for ourselves, and when we have nothing then we are easy marks for the 'isms'."

Spencer asserted that the greatest resource of Americans is not its land, its oil, or its minerals, but its 'human resources,' or the American way of life. He bore out this point by showing that Russia has more natural resources than does the United States, yet that country is not as strong because of the lack of incentive on the part of the individual.

Of the material resources, land is first. Spencer quoted figures showing that 65 per cent of the new wealth each year in this country is produced from the land, and that farm products accounted for $1,800,000,000 in income last year in Texas.

A briefing officer said the convoy was believed to be carrying supplies for the Reds massed around Hamhung and Hungnam. In the far northwest, another threat appeared in the growing strength of Red jet fighter planes tracking into action from Mos treaking into action from Man-

Twenty-four Russian-made MIG-15s tangled with four American F-80 Shooting Stars in the biggest aerial dogfight of the war thus far. The flashing battle was waged for nearly a half hour on over the Sinuiju area on the Korean side of the Red Manchurian border. Pilots reported one hit on a MIG and no damage to their own planes. Earlier in the day 14 to 16 MIGS—the largest number to appear fighting in a single formation up to then—engaged U. S. Jets in a brief clash in the same area. That right was broken off without damage to the eight American Jets involved.

Northwest Front Quiet
Farther south, the UN northwest ront was generally quiet.
A security blackout settled over Hamhung-Hungnam area of northeast Korea. But a U. S. 10th corps spokesman there estimated that 10 Chinese Divisions were putting pressure on the slender beachhead from three directions

The perimeter is manned by elements of three American and two South Korean Divisions plus British and Puerto Rico units. Sharp Fight Expected.

Field officers expected a sharp fight within the near future.

Correspondent Swinton reported a sharp fight within the near future.

Correspondent Swinton reported Chinese forces were seeping down from the north on foot. The heaviest force was moving through the Suchong valley north of Hamhung. West of the Hamhung-Koto road other Chinese elements moved toward the beachhead. A third force swung down from the northeastern coastal road, still well to the north of the right flank of the defense perimeter.

It was down the Hamhung-Koto road that the U. S. First Marine and Seventh nfantry divisions retreated through a series of Red traps from the Changjin reservoir between 8,000 and 10,000 men.

One Column Stopped.

Air strikes and artillery fire stopped one Red column edging toward the perimeter Thursday morning.

The jet dogfight in the northwest was described by Maj. Gen. Earle E. Partridge, U. S. Fifth Air Force commander, as the biggest air battle of the war.

The U. S. F-80s were escorting an unarmed reconnaissance plane. No American planes were reported damaged but their pilots said a hit was scored on an MIG.

On the Eighth army's northwest front, there were relatively small engagements. The largest of these was a fight between South Korean Fifth division and Red forces near Chunchon, about 45 miles northeast of Seoul.

North Koreans Revived.

Those Red forces evidently were part of eight to 12 new or revived North Korean divisions. General MacArthur in his daily war summary reported the divisions were "raised or rehabilitated" since the Allies crushed the North Korean army.

MacArthur said "it is entirely the said of the North Korean army.

"raised or rehabilitated" since the Allies crushed the North Korean army.

MacArthur said "it is entirely possible" that many of the Korean Reds thrown back into the campaign were trained in Manchuriasafe from UN air attacks.

Fifth Air Force planes blasted the Reds in the Chunchon area with jellied gasoline fire-bombs and rockets. Victims of the assault were among more than 2,500 Reds killed or wounded Wednesday in strikes against troops and supply lines throughout northwest Korea.

Strafing and rocket attacks were reported to have accounted for 650 Red casualties at Sariwon, 550 between Onjong and Changjon, 400 between Munam and Urijong and 325 at Sinwon.

Those cities are all north and northeast of Seoul, Korean Republic capital. Between Seoul and parallel 38, arbitrary boundary between North and South Korea, the U. S. Eighth army has established a defense perimeter.

Whooping Cough Immunization Is Effective

AUSTIN, Dec. 14-(Spl)-"Your) child can be protected from whooping cough by the use of anti-serum, available for the immunization youngsters," according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, as he advised parents not to take this communicable disease lightly. "Since whooping cough is particularly dangerous for babies the need for early protection against it ) is undisputed. Research has shown, that preventive treatment may safely and effectively be given at the age of two months or earlier. Older cholldren who have been previously immunized should receive booster doses of the vaccine." Pointing out that Texas has had over 10,700 cases of whooping cough so far this year, Dr. Cox reminded parents that whooping cough is sometimes fatal to young children. may also leave the lungs and other affected parts permanently damaged.

"In an effort to control whooping) cough emphasis is placed upon the great importance of calling the family physician at any time when child is not in normal health. the first signs of a cold do not disappear after a few days of good home care, including rest in 1 cases of communicable disease to the public health officer:"

Pouring of the concrete on the third floor of the Navarro County Memorial Hospital is in progress this week following an interruption in the work last week due to weather conditions.

It is planned to begin the brick work on the walls of the first floor on the north wing of the structure during the week end or Monday, according to an announcement.

Monday, according to an announcement.

Steel for another floor of the building is on hand and all of the tile and much of the brick has been placed on the site, while additional materials are arriving.

Large shipments of electrical material along with plumbing fixtures and other items have already arrived in Corsicana. It is understood that work on the plans and specifications for the 28-room nurse shome is being rushed by the architects preparatory to awarding the contract not later than February.

Unless war or other unforeseen causes interfere, it is expected that the hospital plant will be almost completed during 1951.

The selection of the type of certain equipment—sterlizers and other installed items that are constructed into the building proper—is slated to be made by the advisory committee and commissioners court within the near future.

AP Newsteatures.

If you are an early Christmas shopper, no doubt you also like to wrap your packages before the sleigh bells jingle. Then too, if you get a nice early start, your packages can have elaborate gift wraps that will dazzle your friends. Christmas packages not only should enhance the gift but also should be a decorative item for under-the-tree or on-the mantel.

Let's say you are giving someone a tie for Christmas. You 'know how a tie box always is so tattletale about its contents—the shape never is disguised. Brother always ruins the Christmas mood by saying, "What, another tie?"....or some such waddening exclamation. Well, you can still give a tie and wrap the box so prettily that it will distract the recipient from guessing at the contents. Here's how:

Cover the box with green or red paper. Tie with contrasting satin ribbon around the box 2 inches from the bottom. Add a small tailored bow to each. Paste a snowflake cut from a paper doily below each of the ribbons. Then cut out two Christmas-tree shapes, each from a round 6-inch paper doily. Paste these in the box, so that the top points of each tree are joined in the center of the box, and the trees extend in opposite directions. Paste a large red star at the point where a the two tree tops are joined (or don't quite join the tree tops and put a star atop each.) Paste gold and red seals over both trees.

A candy cane gift wrap is fun for a hanky or a stocking box. Cover the box with plain or candy cane design paper. Tie the ribbon around the box cater-corner fashion. Do this so that you have opposite corners trimmed with the ribbon. Then make the candy-cane part of the trim. To make the canes if you wish (you may substitute actual candy canes if the gift is going to a child), cut two pleces of wire 6 inches long. Wrap to the desired thickness with white crepe paper. Re-wrap with narrow strips of red crepe paper or red adhesive ribbon 3-8 inch wide to achieve a diagonal strips effect. Bend the top of the wire to shape the cane. Brush paste on the center of a 5 inch round doily and slip the cane through the center. Gather together to form a ruffle. Do this twice, and then tie the two canes in the doilles together crisscross fashion with a green ribbon bow. Tuck three more gathered doilles under the front bow and paste in place.

wrap and tie the package with ribbon, make a gay doilie snowman with a juanty peaked clown hat. Start by making his collar first with a piece of green crepe paper about 6 inches wide. Fold it in half and tie in between with gold ribbon to form a ruffle. Make his head, using 5 or 6 round 6-inch doilies. Pinch each doilie in the center and gather it. Then group the doilies to form a ball or group the doilies to form a ball group the dollies to form a ball or pompon effect—the snowa man's face. Fasten together with paste. Cut his features from gummed seals—his eyes out of blue lawyer seals; his nose and mouth out of sections from red notary seals. Paste them in place. Paste the complete head on to the green ruffle.

Make a hat for the snowman by rolling a strip of green paper into a cone 4 inches tall and large enough to fit on the head. Remove the center from one doily and paste the edge around the bottom of the hat as a trim. Add a band of gold ribbon on top of the doily trim and a gold ribbon bow at the point of the hat. Paste the hat on the snowman's head.

Delays in turning in fire alarms on this account have often happened. Still more serious, and more strange, was the case of a mother in Madison, Wisconsin, who wanted to call the doctor on a recent day because her small son, recovering from surgery, was suffering a severe he morrhage. Two school girls refused to interrupt their conversation, and the one on her line district tempts to call after they had hung up.

Limitations on driving rights, such as the establishment of one-way streets and the banning of trucks from certain boule-wards, are partial expressions of the inherent power of the community to forbid all driving when it becomes too great an inconvenience to the public.

As the number of cars increases, cities may have to resort permanently to bans on private cars. It would not be surprising if New York City eventually forbade the use of private automobiles, but the boy's life had been in question. One point was not reported: Are the youngsters in the affair prolonging the telephone conversations these days? Or

While both have faults, the moral and intellectual ference between them and their predecessors of 1900 is incalculable.

The rules of courtesy and common sense applying to the uses of party telephone lines are no different from those for any other important facility which must be shared by several persons. District Court.

A new district court jury commission was sworn in Monday to select petit and grand jurors for the January, 1851, term of court. It was the first jury commission to name petit jurors for the county in a year. During the past year a jury wheel has been used to comply with the state law. The latest census, however, failed to show a population great enough to require use of the wheel, which has been discarded.

Commission members ara Wessley Edens, Sr., Guy H. Campbell, Richland; C. M. Newton, Jr., Dawwon; and John Pugh.

Judge A. P. Mays warned the commission against indiscriminating, against the negro or any other race in selecting jurors. He pointed to a U. S. supreme court decision which, in effect, voids a negro's conviction if discrimination existed in jury selection.

Chest Directors Vote Additional Money For Scouts

An additional $1,000 for the Corsicana Boy Scouts budget was granted by the Corsicana Community Chest directors at a meeting held Thursday.

Incoming District Chairman Fred H. Harvey, Jr., explained the additional amount was needed to hire an executive director for this district. He explained the man they propose to hire Jan. 1 has seven years Scouting experience and that he has said he can sizeably increase the number of troops in the district.

The new executive will handle Navarro county, Streetman and Wortham.

No action was taken on a proposal to establish a clearing house for the distribution of Christmas baskets, clothing and toys to needy families.

However, it was decided at the meeting that the agencies co-operate in such distribution as they have in the past.

It was suggested that such aclearing house be established before Christmas, 1951.

indictments of Thomas and three other men—Selma L (Rags) Burnett, J. R. (Red) Derden, and Samuel Hooker, a Dallas negro who witnesses said had talked them into becoming salesmen for the policy

Other state witnesses were Chief of Police Bruce Nutt, Liquor Control Board Inspector, R. T. Bailey, City Police Sgt. W. D. Thedford, R. E. Jones and Dick Salter, deputy sheriffs. They raided the racket's headquarters the night of Oct. 18 and told the jury of seizing polick game equipment, which they identified at the trial Wednesday.

Thomas was the only defense witness.
Counsel Maury Hughes put the defendant on the stand at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday.
Testifying he had never been arrested before, Thomas declared "I was just a player; I had nothing to do with operating the game."

Ing to do with operating the game."

The 44-year-old carpenter by trade admitted purchasing tickets. His presence the night of the raid, he explained, was because he had "ten or 12" tickets for the drawing.
On cross-ex nination, Special Prosecutor Bowlen Bond asked how Thomas learned of the policy game. The defendant replied that Samuel Hooker, a defendant now awaiting trial, told him about it.

"I met him on the east side," said Thomas. "I was doing carpenter work over there."
Further questioning by Bond brought Thomas' steadfast denial of operating the racket. "I didn't take no money" of operating the racket. "I didn't check no books," he said. "I didn't take no money."

He continued:
"I didn't keep, exhibit or operate any policy game, but I did bet."
Earlier one of the negro salesmen had testified that Thomas had "checked books." When officers raided the place, Thomas was seated at a table with several tickets and some money in front of him, police testified.

Explain Sale.

Negroes testifying for the state were Curtis L. Jones, Lafayette Anderson, Floyd Graves and Maurice Cox. They explained that numbers were sold from five cents on up, usually in groups of three's. Records are kept of the customers and their numbers.

Marble-like numbers are shaken up in a leather container and drawn out 12 at a time, it was explained by Curtis Jones, one of the negro salesmen. The numbers are written on a black board in three vertical rows—12 in two lines and 6 in another verticle line. The holder of three numbers which appear in any one of the three lines wins. Two books of tickets are sold—one called "Easy Money" and one called "Easy Money" and one called "Lucky Strike."

Cross-Examination.

Hughes' cross-examination of the megroes brought testimony Thomas was not seen doing anything with the game's operation. Anderson said "he was just playing like other customers."

Jones said "Frankly speaking, I don't know what Mr. Thomas was doing out there."

Jones told the jury on cross-examination he was kept in jail six days but was released without having to make bond.

"Did they promise you they wouldn't prosecute if you'd make a statement?" Hughes asked.

"No, they didn't," said Jones.
The witness following Jones, however, admitted he was promised no prosecution. This was Anderson, who was in jail six days. He also said he didn't know who took the salesmen's money or who was operating the game.

"The money was left on the table," said Anderson.

Obviously surprised by testimony of their own witnesses, Bond and County Attorney Charles T. Banister opened an attempt to impeach Jones and Anderson.

Both numbers salesmen, however, continued to deny telling the prosecutors before the trial that Thomas helped operate the game.

Jones, Anderson and Cox each linked the Dallas negro (Hooker) with the racket. Hooker had either invited them out to the headquarters or had talked them into being salesmen, they testified.

Graves testified he was at the house the night of the raid, and that the defendant "was checking in salesmen and counting money." He said he did not sell tickets, was

Equipment seized in the Oct. 18 raid, and exhibited in the courtroom during the trial, included two small printing machines, a large quantity of ticket books which salesmen carry, a leather jug and the numbered marbles, blackboard and printed results of drawings.

The state rested its case at 5:30 p. m. Wednesday, when a recess was called until 7:30 p. m. Thomas then took the stand for a half hour and the defense rested. A defense motion for an instructed verdict of acquittal was overruled by Judge Mays.

India Is Land Of Contrasts And Conflicts, Rev. Shamburger States

"Of the 400 million persons in India, only one per cent are Christians and it's the obligation of Christians all over the world to carry the mesage of our Lord to them," the Rev. W. M. Shamburger, pastor of the First Baptist church, told members of the Corsican Rotary club Wednesday.

Rev. Shamburger served as an army chaplain in India for 13 months during World War II and he told the club of his experiences while stationed in the Far East.

Land of Contrasts

He said the richest and the poorest people, and the most cultured and the least educated live in India. That the country has the highest and near-lowest geographical spots in the world.

The pastor said the country is in a constant state of turmoil and that their way of life is one of conflict.

"Human life is the cheapest commodity in India," he said. "Their span of life averages 30 years due to health conditions, strife and aggression. Cows are valued at $75 and humans at $80."

Rev. Shamburger warned the Rotarians that India must be considered as a power in future world idered as a power in future world

Many Oppotunities
Speaking about the opportunities of India, Rev. Shamburger said the country was rich in oil, tea plantations and fertile valleys.

"Much of the country's wealth is attill unexplored and undiscovered."

is still unexplored and undiscovered," he said.

The speaker said he believed the British were interested in exploiting the wealth of India for the British Empire, not for the people of India

DALLAS, Dec. 13—(P)—Two Dallas brothers were held today as officers studied the slaying of Dallas underworld character James Ben (Blacky) Russell.

Russell was found, his throat cut and numerous cuts on his face and head, alongside a boulevard northwest of here early Tuesday. Officers said his body had been thrown from a car.

He was an ex-convict, under indictment in the April shooting of Edgar Lee Crawford, 30, of Dallas, Crawford's body, with nine bullet holes in it, was found southeast of Ennis April 19.

Sheriff Bill Decker said this occurred after Russell's body was found; some five hours later officers arrested Forrest Pinkey Anderson in a blood-spattered apartment. Before the day had ended officers also picked ly Forrest Anderson, and found an auto with a blood-soaked floor.

Decker said he would ask the of India.

Rev. Shamburger described the hot, humid climate of much of India, and explained how the caste blood-soaked floor.

not, humid climate of much of India, and explained how the caste system regulates the way of living and government.

He explained the difference of the two great religious systems there, Mohammedism and Hindusism, and said the former were trying to outnumber the latter by increased births.

Country Divided

'He explained how the country has been divided by the two religious groups and of the strife resulting from it.

Rev. Shamburger concluded, "The Hindus have an extremely high code of ethics but the people live on a much lower level. They live on a lower level because they depend on the power of man not on the power of Gd."

The speaker was intrduced by Program Chairman Elliott Middleton.

anid 56 fires still are burning in a soven-county Southeast Texas timber area.

D. A. Anderson, director of the service's research and educational department, said a heavy fog extending north to Angelina, county eased the forest fire situation to-day but that the fire fighters still are hoping for rain.

Anderson said that despite the low visibility planes are patrolling forest areas in Montgomery, Hardin, Polk, Tyler, Liberty, San Jacinto and Walker counties.

Montgomery county has 38 of the fires. Anderson said 8600 acres have been seared in the county, three hay barns lost and several homes saved by quick action of firefighters.

The 148 forest service men in the area, Anderson said, have been aided by lumber, sawmill and paper mill crews.

TEXANS In WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—QP)—
Texas farmers are learning that they need to know a lot more about electricity than simply clicking a switch.
So reports O. B. Bryan of Stanton, who is in charge of a power use educational program in the rural areas of the state. He has been here for conferences on the subject at Rural Electrification Administration headquarters.
"Sometimes a farmer buys a lot of electrical appliances in town," says Bryan, "and when he gets home with them he finds they won't work at all on the type of current on his place.

"It may sound a little technical, but put as simply sa possible, our rural electric co-up lines are single phase designed to operate up to 10 horsepower motors. Most of your city lines are set up to handle up to three-phase motors."

He city the example of the handle up to three-phase motors."

He city the example of the farmer who bought a reed grinding machine and sorrowfully discovered after he had it installed that it wouldn't operate on his circuit. And, Bryan continued, occasionally farmers pick up what they think to be good second-hand baugains, or buy from a none-too-scrupulous dealer, and find they can't return equipment that they can't use.

"Texas co-operatives are taking the lead in an educational program to reduce these unhappy occurrences to a minimum," Bryan said.

Proper Use Essential.

"Proper use of equipment also is important. A broader that is regulated correctly, for instance, might be operated at just half the cost o fone which hasn't been checked and adjusted."

Bryan is manager of the Cap Rock Electric Co-operative, as well as chairman of the power use and education committee of the Texas Power Reserve Electric Co-operative.

The Reserve Co-operative is managed by Elmo Osborne of Austin and is composed of about 80 co-operatives throughout Texas. Osborne and Mrs. George H. Robbins of Perryton were here with Bryan attending the power-use conference.

Checking, Poage said he learnthat in 1949-50 school year, New York with a total population of approximately 14,000000 had received 201 scholarships while 15 Southern states with a total population of 45,000,000 had received only 109 awards. Texas received 13.

Describing the administration of the program "an outrage." Poage said those in charge told him that any inequities probably were due to the fact that many more applications for scholarships were filed by New Yorkers. "It also was pointed out that the New York students filed applications for study in many smaller countries, while Texans usually sought to study in either England or France.

"I suggest that if the quantity of applications is to be a factor, then Texas students should shower them with requests. And it would be a good idea to select smaller countries where possible."

Another Request Hinted.

Marshall told the subcommittee that before next June he thought the Defense Department would ask for more funds. That would increase still further defense spending this year.

Such a new request would be in addition to the 1952 budget, now in the making and reliably estimated as likely to exceed $50,000,000,000 That estimate assumes there will not be an all-out war and full mobilization.

Should that happen, Mahon said during the hearings, military needs would require a minimum of $100,000,000,000 a year.
This military supplement is part of the $18,000,000,000 President Truman asked Congress to vote. The total includes $1,050,000,000 for the Atomic Energy Commission and $84,000,000 for the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Quick Action Expected.

The full appropriations committee will consider the full amount Friday morning, probably approving it quickly.

If so, House Democratic Leader McCormack (Mass) has announced it will be called up in the House that afternoon or on Saturday.

It was brought out in the hearings that the military supplement was drawn up by the joint chiefs of staff prior to the Chinese Communist attack in Koreta.

Marshall, Lovett and members of the joint chiefs of staff said that only future events could tell. Mahon told Marshall that the "modesty" of the request indicates "that you do not believe that within the next few months we will be in an all-out shooting war."

Production First.

"That is very hard to answer," Marshall replied. "But even if I think the possibility is very serious of a shooting war within the next three or four months I would say this emphasis on production is the way to begin."

Marshall said, yes, this government is doing everything it possibly can to avoid all-out war and "It has made considerable sacrifice in the doing."

Mahon asked:

"Is it your belief that there is hope that an all-out war can be averted?"

"I think, along with the saying while there's life, there's hope, there is a hope," Marshall said.

It was fitting, and what might almost be called a compulsion of history and logic, that the towering figure of Jesus should be followed by a man of great spiritual and intellectual proportions who would minister in the name of Jesus and carry on His work. The Sunday school lessons for the past three months have dealt with the problem of Christian living. Today, we examine the problem of meeting the extreme crisis of life. ## Carpet Makers Lads Take Eagles: Starting Seventh Price Increases

NEW YORK, Dec. 14—(AP)—That new home or apartment is going to cost more to fix up.

Carpet mills are just starting on their seventh price-hike round of the year. Makers of linoleum and other hard-surfaced floor coverings have also been raising prices.

Carpet makers report production and sales up 10 per cent over last year—but costs of materials soar—ing out of sight. Carpet wool prices are at least two and a half times as high as a year ago, industry sources say, adding that the price of wool accounts for about 40 per cent of the cost of making a carpet.

Before World War II, the United States got about one-fourth of the wool that went into its carpets from Argentina. Now it depends upon the South American country for more than three-fifths of the supply. But there have been problems here, too. First, was the task of inducing customers to try new fibers. Then came rising prices of synthetic fibers and a tightening in the supplies of some of them. Growing shortages are widely predicted. Carpet men say there isn't enough synthetic available to cover the floors of the nation.

But it is wool that gets most of the blame for the seven rounds of price hikes this year. Production of wool, for all purposes, has been steadily falling behind consumption demands since World War II. The United States' own sheep population fell off sharply, although the President of the National Wool Growers Association, now meeting in Casper, Wyo., says that wool production is on the upgrade again here. However, the country still production is on the upgrade again here. However, the country still has to import most of its wool for all its needs. And since the Korean outbreak the price of fine apparel wool has gone up 45 per cent, dragging the other grades behind it. U. S. government wool orders for its military needs have made the shortage still more acute.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14—(P)—The stock market dropped abruptly this afternoon under a short but intense selling attack.

Losses piled up to an extreme of $4 a share before leading issues made a stand. Closing prices were a bit above the lows of the day in many cases.

Rail stocks took the first blast of liquidation but selling soon spread to other sections.

The rails were in a vulnerable position because of recent sharp gains. Evidently owners of rail stocks got a little nervous as a wildcat strike threatened to tie the nation's transportation systems into knots.

wildcat strike threatened to the nation's transportation systems into knots.

Earlier in the day traders showed a high degree of selectivity in their operations. Textile, soft drink and copper shares advanced while autos, chemicals and radio-televisions backed down.

Among the losers were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Standard Oli (NJ), U. S. Steel, General motors, Chrysler, Studebaker, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Philoo, Motorola, Radio Corp., American Telephone, American Cyanamid, Dow Chemical, Du Pont, General Electric, and Johns-Manville.

Wyandotte, Consolidated Textile and American Woolen were higher most of the time.

Eggs Only Food

Showing Decline

By The Associated Press

Egg prices took a humpty-dumpty spill in many cities this week, but changes in other foods were mostl upward.

Beef items, some cuts of pork, canned coffce and several fresh vegetables were higher.

Eggs Irregular

The drop in retail egg prices were very irregular across the country. In some cities, like New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, the reduction ranged as much as the reduction ranged as much as 16 cents a dozen. But in others the declines were much smaller, and in some, top grade eggs at mid-week were still being quoted a few cents above last Friday's levels.

At Los Angeles, a spokesman for a large store chain said "leggs are still in very tight supply here, but prices may go down 5 to 8 cents a dozen by the end of the week." One veteran dealer said prics in the area reached an all-time high this week.

Several factors confused the egg price and supply situation. Sharp price gains last week were blamed on storms which delayed shipments of eggs to terminal markets, heavy military buying in the mid-

Faces Two Charges.

Files in the district attorney's office show Jones is charged by complaint in Dallas county with two cases alleging theft by conversion and theft by false pretext, both involving housing transactions.

Revocation of his real estate license was ordered after a hearing in Dallas last week. Jones it testified at the Dallas hearing that he had 20 or more agents, none of them licensed, during last summer. But he said he wasn't in the real estate business.

"My business is to contract for the building and financing of houses, as a contractor's job," her testified. He said he had engaged non-licensed agents "because I was under the impression I was not in the real estate business."

There was testimony that he paid the agents $100 for each house sold.

The real estate commission said it had information Jones had split commissions with two men, neither of whom is licensed as a real estate agent by the commission.

Auditorium Packed.

The large and enthusiastic audience that packed the High School auditorium broke into prolonged applause after the famous "Hallelujah Chorus" was so stirringly interpreted as the powerful climax. The Baylor School of Music and Mr. Hopkins brought to Corsicanans a "Messiah" of truly majestic proportions and one that will long be remembered in musical annals of the city.

Morris Battle, president of the host organization, brought greetings to the audience and presented the Rev. W. M. Shamburger, pastor of First Baptist church, who offered the invocation. Suttle Roberts made an announcement concerning the free-will offering that was expected to coverexpense of presentation.
